The Bronx Cheers Wallace

Leo Isaacson, Wallace-backed American labor candidate in New York's 24th congressional district, was elected by a margin which surprised even the most optimistic Wallace supporters. He received 56 percent of the votes, compared with 27 percent for the district's previous A. L. P. congressional candidate.

With the support of disaffected Democrats and others who have rallied to the Wallace banner, Isaacson conducted a strong anti-Truman campaign throughout the Bronx. He assailed the administration for its Palestine policy and called its racial equality program hypocritical.

Because of the district's large Jewish population, the vote is construed as a rebuff of the administration for its Palestine policy, but it also is an indication Wallace will be strong in Democratic urban districts throughout the north — stronger than expected. The Democrats have been laughing off the Wallace threat. Tuesday's vote was no laughing matter for them.

It Started In 1848

One hundred years ago there were stirrings of unrest and intellectual ferment both here and in Europe. The rate of exchange in the world was accelerating. Bold new concepts were being expounded.

It was in that era, in 1848, that Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Lucretia Mott issued their call for the first women's rights convention. That first meeting in Seneca Falls, N. Y., marked the start of a movement which will continue until the women of every civilized nation are enfranchised.

The spark of women's suffrage was fanned to flame by Susan B. Anthony and Lucy Stone who waged a long and often heartbreaking struggle against inertia and ridicule. They passed along the torch to Carrie Chapman Catt, Dr. Anna Howard Shaw and others, whose efforts were crowned with success in 1920 when the 19th amendment was adopted. In passing, credit also should be given to Horace Greeley and other men who braved the scorn of their fellows to call for women's suffrage.

The predictions of politics purified by woman's refining influence haven't been realized, but more and more capable women are taking their places in the seats of government. In 27 years no miracles have been accomplished, but who can say that women are less fit to exercise the right of franchise than men? Or who would deny them their hard-won right?

Public Help For a Public Problem

This year the American people are being asked for the first time to contribute to the fight of medical science against heart disease. The campaign is being conducted by the American Heart Association, a group made up largely of specialists in diseases of the heart and blood vessels.

The association's program is as broad as its appeal. It aims at expanding research, professional education, public education and community service. One particularly important aim, it seems to us, is to establish a greater number of local heart associations. The eventual goal is a local association in every sizable city and rural area.

These local groups would have access to new knowledge and new activities developed by the American Heart Association. Ideally — and, it may be hoped, eventually — the millions of "heart cases" throughout the country would at last receive highly professional diagnosis, treatment and care.

That, at present, is a distant goal. It cannot be reached without a lot of work and a lot of money. Heart disease today causes one out of three deaths in this country. These ailments are not, of course, confined to middle age and beyond.

Rheumatic fever is one of the deadliest of children's diseases. In New York City, over the 1942-45 period, rheumatic fever annually killed more than ten times as many children as infantile paralysis, meningitis, whooping cough, measles, diphtheria and scarlet fever combined. Yet it remains one of childhood's least-understood and worst-cared-for afflictions.

Great discoveries remain to be made in the cause and prevention of the various heart diseases. They probably will be made, but it will take time and money for research. Better treatment for sufferers from heart disease and some relief from the worry and hopelessness that accompany it, are surely possible. But they will require time and money or professional and public education.

Yet at present the funds available to fight heart disease as a public enemy are pitifully inadequate. In recent years voluntary agencies for tuberculosis and infantile paralysis have received 430 times the money, and cancer agencies 100 times the amount, that the American Heart Association has had to work with.

This is not the public's fault. The public has not been asked to help before. But now that the call has come the American people will surely heed it. Millions suffer from heart disease. Millions more have friends and relatives who are sufferers. Heart disease is an intimate and unwelcome acquaintance, as well as a medical health and economic problem.

The amount that the American Heart Association needs is modest, as such things go. It is asking from the public less than $200,000.

The Stars Say
BY GENEVIEVE KEMBLE
For Friday, February 20

An inexplicable situation seems to arise, according to the augury of menacing aspects of major planets, which may require most astute, deep-rooted as well as practical insight and analysis, if danger and disaster are to be sidestepped.

Such behind-the-scenes maneuvers affect the personal and intimate life as well as business, and demand shrewd and sagacious work, alert and efficient tactics. Safeguard all avenues against duplicity, betrayal and sinister elements. There could be much criticism of conduct.

If It Is Your Birthday
Those whose birthday it is, may be ready to give some clever, alert and efficient opposition toward rather sinister, subtle and crafty machinations, arising from hidden sources.

Much perplexity and doubt come from inexplicable and bewildering sources, in which private as well as business interests are involved. In fact reputation and standing are likely to be criticised or undermined by malicious and irresponsible elements, difficult to "put the finger on."

Guard up against treachery and betrayal in all its forms. Do not act under obscure or emotional urges as strange baits and lures call for unusual discrimination.

A child born on this day may have some underlying qualities in its nature inviting strange experiences or contacts. It should be trained in straight and unemotional behaviorism.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

BY WALTER KIERNAN

British Singer Maggie Teyte says "a woman's age first shows in her elbows" . . . that explains why men are so easy to fool.

The number of men who notice a woman's elbows could be counted on one elbow.

Nevertheless, now that the secret is out, plastic surgeons can expect requests for bids on lifting a pair of elbows to match the age of the remodeled face.

But it's a new slogan for the advertisers . . . "she's lovely, she's engaged, she uses elbow cream."

And we fellows are getting a new look . . . a tuxedo with a little jacket.

Not so much in demand in the east but a "must" for Hollywood where next battles are fought in tuxedos.

And it is to be hoped that the next time a columnist and a singer clash they will remember not to yell their fatigue suits . . . but both fatigue so easily.

"We Wanna Disaffiliate!"

Boyle's COLUMN

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK—If college football could be beaten to death with a Phi Beta Kappa key, Robert Maynard Hutchins would have done it long ago.

At the ripe old age of 49 this ex-boy wonder of the educational world—he became chancellor of the University of Chicago at 30 — is still trying to protect America's ivory towers from the evils of the inflated pigskin. It is no longer on Chicago's program at Chicago.

Just a few days ago "Fighting Bob" renewed the attack in a lecture in Buffalo during which he remarked:

"Football fraternities and fun were designed to make a college education palatable for those who shouldn't be there."

In his theory the people "who shouldn't be there" are those who go to college for a vocational or technical education. He believes universities should be reserved for those who seek the intellectual life on a high and ardent level—Aristotle for breakfast, Thomas Aquinas for lunch, Kant for dinner.

HIS IDEAL is the medieval university at which students pored over metaphysics and philosophical classics, thereby, Hutchins holds, learning to think so that they could discover the truth for themselves. This system, of course, created its share of wandering intellectual bums just as amateur tennis today has produced a number of traveling athletic tramps.

These unemployed career high-brows could argue learnedly on how many angels could sit on the point of a needle — but they weren't much help when somebody had to get in the hay harvest from the fields.

As a graduate of a state university which had its share of "football, fraternities and fun," I find it difficult to understand the learned doctor's abhorrence of this happy trinity of American education.

Plato, one of the intellectual rockets of history, was an able wrestler. Most of the football players I knew did better than fair in their studies, and their only complaint was they weren't being paid enough for the labors in the stadium—which was true at that time. I understand now football players generally are better paid and that is as it should be. Football is work.

COLLEGE FRATERNITIES do make some snobs, but so does Phi Beta Kappa, the honorary fraternity of the learned. The social fraternities also teach shy country boys how to get along with people and to refrain from wiping their noses with their dinner napkins.

Phi Beta Kappa doesn't do this — it merely honors a number of high-ranking students who may know nothing they haven't read in a book.

The third thing Dr. Hutchins objects to — fun — keeps all life and learning from becoming sterile nonsense. No greater threat to democracy could exist than a generation educated without a sense of humor, if Hitler was capable of a belly laugh, we might have been spared the Second World war.

There is no reason why a boy can't go to college, study for a career, learn to enjoy Socrates and the world of ideas — and still find time to watch a football game Saturday afternoon and go to a fraternity dance Saturday night. A man ought to quit any college he doesn't have fun at — or resign from living altogether, for that matter, if it ceases to entertain him to a reasonable degree.

As an admirer of the classical consistency of Bob Hutchins, A. B. A. M., LL.B., LL.D., I can't quite understand the logic of his wrath against college fraternities. The latest volume of "Who's Who in America" lists him as belonging to eight social and business clubs and two honorary clubs in three cities on two continents.

Free Ride For You—on the Freedom Train!

We had a real thrill in our town just the other day — when the Freedom Train stopped by!

You've heard about it, of course — an actual train that's touring the country to remind us again what true Democracy means. It carries such Americans as the Declaration of Independence, the Bill of Rights, and other immortal documents that guarantee every citizen his liberty.

A great idea! And from where I sit, we're all riding along with that Freedom Train — right now — as we ing in a country that protects our individual liberties — whether they apply to our right to vote, to choose our church, to speak our minds, or to enjoy a glass of beer with friends.

Only thing is — we've got to prove ourselves worthy of the ride . . . by guarding zealously against whatever forces of intolerance creep upon our American concepts of free and fair play in a free and strong Democracy!

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

The Exact Value of Gargles

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
WHEN doctors want to know something, they use exact methods to find out.

That is why, for instance, they can be so annoyingly sure about it when they tell you that a gargle—even a highly recommended one—isn't in itself going to cure your sore throat although it may help relieve some symptoms. The doctor learned, by actual experiment, that the gargle just cannot reach the part of your throat which needs the healing most.

Here's how: A dye, which has the property of staining mucous membrane, has been added to gargles which were then used by human guinea pigs. Subsequent examination showed that the dye—and hence the gargle—did not get very far back of the molar teeth and never came in contact with the tonsil at all.

More recently the same sort of test was applied to chewing gums, medicated with such drugs as penicillin and the sulfonamides. They revealed that the dye stained the tongue and gum margins and lining membrane of the teeth but that the tonsils and back part of the throat were not stained by the dye when the patient remained in an upright position.

However, according to Dr. Noah D. Fabricant, when a patient chewed and swallowed while lying down, with his head lower than his shoulders, the tonsils and back part of the throat usually were stained. Hence, preparations incorporated in a chewing gum can be used with some success by those with throat or tonsil infections if chewing is carried out while lying down.

Powders of the sulfonamide drugs have also been recommended for the treatment of throat infections. Breathed in, they do ordinary reach the throat and tonsil tissues. Even so, they do not have any great effect because the lining membrane of the throat is smooth and is continually washed by saliva; hence the powder does not remain in contact with the diseased tissues long enough to cure.

A number of studies have been made of penicillin and the sulfonamides given in the usual ways—by mouth or injection—as a treatment for throat conditions. It would appear that while this method may bring about some improvement of the symptoms, the germs causing the infection must be permanently eliminated, or relapses occur. However, in many cases, such treatment does reduce the severity, as well as the duration of the sickness.

Some patients, of course, are sensitive to these various preparations, and often their use may only mask or hide the symptoms while the infection continues.

When severe throat infection occurs, a careful study should be made by a physician who will decide when the penicillin and sulfonamide drugs should be used, as well as the form in which they should be employed.

Letters to Dr. Bundesen should be addressed in care of 235 E. 45th St., New York City.

Push-Button Device Turns Out Axles

(By United Press) — Push-button war-may be a long way off, but push-button production is here.
A machine tool producer in Detroit has developed a machine with which even a child, if he's big enough to lift a bar of steel, can make perfect rear axles for automobiles as easily as a highlyskilled technician.

You just put a rough-hewn axle in the end, push a button and there is much churning and grinding noise, and presently a completely finished rear axle comes out.

When the operator isn't doing anything else, he can watch a wheel covered with flashing lights on his elbow. They tell him where the axle is in the production process.

But there is a mass of detail behind that smooth exterior. Seventeen electric motors develop 176 horsepower to operate 32 cutting tools simultaneously. There are 44 hydraulic cylinders and five miles of wire.

A small river of oil flows through the machine constantly. Some 10-gallons circulate hourly to cool and lubricate the moving parts as well as collect metal shavings.

room and kitchen on first floor, three nice bedrooms and bath on second floor. Plenty of closet space, downstairs finished and floored in hardwood. This home is in very good general condition and has a large cemented basement with coal cellar and fruit cellar, both partitioned off. The house is situated on large lot with double garage and attractive shade. This is a rare listing, now being advertised for the first time and must be seen to be appreciated.

Houses of this type have been scarce in Salem and this one is not priced out of line according to today's market. We feel that it will soon be in the hands of a new owner at $10,500.00.

WE, THE WOMEN

By RUTH MILLETT

A WOMAN reader confesses she hates to go to big parties because she doesn't know how to make "small talk," and invariably finds herself standing tongue-tied on the sidelines.

Small talk is easy, lady, if you'll follow a few rules.

Rule one. Don't wait until you have something to say before opening your mouth. Just open it, and say anything that comes into your head.

Rule two. Don't get flustered if nobody seems to be listening to what you are saying. That is the one saving grace of small talk. Nobody has to pay any attention to it.

Rule three. Use plenty of gestures, and, no matter how inane your chatter, you'll fool the people who are listening with only one ear into thinking you are a clever, gay conversationalist.

JUST START TALKING

Rule four: Never wait for an opening before putting in your nickel's worth. If you do, you'll never get so say anything. Grab the floor when you want it, and hang on until you've had your say.

Rule five. Don't worry about whether or not you are making a favorable impression. Everybody else will be too busy wondering the same thing about themselves to care about how you are doing.

And that's all there is to the ability to make "small talk." If you doubt it, listen carefully to the chatter next time you are at a big party.

Peruvian Envoy First Told U. S. of Jap Intrigue

The Memoirs Of Cordell Hull

BY CORDELL HULL
Copyright, 1948, by North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.

INSTALLMENT 22
AMBASSADOR GREW called me from Tokyo on Jan. 27, 1941. He had heard from many sources, including a Japanese one, that a surprise mass attack on Pearl Harbor was planned by the Japanese military forces in case of trouble between Japan and the United States; that the attack would involve the use of all the Japanese military facilities.

The Peruvian said this on because it had come to him from many sources, although the plan seemed fantastic. On the following day we communicated the contents of the cable to the War and Navy department.

It was at about this time and in these circumstances that two Catholic priests, Bishop James Edward Walsh, superior general of the Catholic Foreign Missionary Society, at Maryknoll, N. Y., and Father Drought, returned to the United States from Japan.

They reported that they had talked to many highly-placed Japanese, including Matsuoka; they realized that relations between the two countries were strained and that worse might follow, and they had a laudable desire to do whatever they could as private citizens to avert the prospect of war. They contacted on the one hand Postmaster General Frank C. Walker, one of the most prominent Catholics in the administration, and on the other several members of the Japanese embassy.

The President and I agreed that Bishop Walsh and Father Drought, along with Postmaster General Walker, could continue their contacts with the Japanese embassy on a purely private basis and seek to reduce to writing what the Japanese had in mind. We felt, however, that we ourselves could not take any action until the new Japanese ambassador, Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, arrived in Washington.

Ambassador Nomura paid his first call on me on Feb. 12. He was tall, robust, in fine health, with an open face, differing considerably in physique from the average Japanese. He spoke a certain amount of English, an uncertainty characteristic was solemnity, but he was much given to a mirthless chuckle and to bowing. I credit Nomura with having been honestly sincere in trying to avoid war between his country and mine. I held my first extended conversation with Nomura on March 8 in my apartment at the Carlton hotel. This was the first of some 40 to 50 conversations between us until Pearl Harbor. They were invariably at night, in the study of my apartment, first at the Carlton and then at the Wardman Park hotel. Nomura preferred to come to my apartment rather than to the State department so as to keep our conversations as free as possible from publicity.

Nomura Polite
DURING the course of these discussions many blunt words were spoken pointblank, but our voices never rose from the level of a conversational tone. Nomura was very gentlemanly. As between us personally, relations were amicable. Our first several conversations were limited to ourselves. Later they embraced my advisers and Nomura's.

Joseph W. Ballantine, an outstanding Japanese expert of the department, used to appear at my apartment at 7:45 p. m., bring whatever documents were necessary, and talk them over with me. Nomura and his advisers came in shortly before 8:30 and the conversations usually went on until 10 o'clock sometimes 10:30. Ballantine then returned to the State department to prepare a memorandum of the conversation.

The informal conversations conducted by Bishop Walsh, Father Drought and Postmaster General

Walker with Japanese representatives, including Ambassador Nomura, reached a head on April 9. On that day I received from them a draft proposal on which the participants had agreed. During the next few days I went over this carefully with the experts on Far Eastern affairs of the State department. As we studied the proposal, our disappointment was keen. It was much less accommodating than we had been led to believe it would be, and most of its provisions were all that the ardent Japanese imperialists could want.

After our Far Eastern experts and I completed our examination of the proposals sent me through Postmaster General Walker, I concluded that, however objectionable some of the points might be, there were others that could be accepted as they stood and still others that could be modified. I felt no opportunity should be overlooked that might lead to broad-scale conversations with Japan. I therefore asked Nomura to see me in my apartment at the Wardman Park hotel, to which I had recently moved.

I mentioned to Nomura that I had received the unofficial proposals for a settlement between our two countries, and added that I had been told that the Ambassador himself had participated in and associated himself with these plans. Nomura promptly replied he knew all about the document. He had not yet forwarded it to his government, however, but he thought his government would be favorably disposed toward it.

Two days later I handed Nomura at my apartment a statement of four basic principles which I said would have to underlie any agreement we reached. The four principles were these:

- (1) Respect for the territorial integrity and the sovereignty of each and all nations;
- (2) Support of the principle of non-interference in the internal affairs of other countries;
- (3) Support of the principle of equality, including equality of commercial opportunity;
- (4) Non-disturbance of the status quo in the Pacific except as the status quo may be altered by peaceful means.

I said to Nomura that, with these four points accepted, if he submitted to his government the informal document prepared by the individual Americans and Japanese, and if his government approved it and instructed him to propose it to us, it would afford a basis for starting conversations.

Nomura duly sent to Tokyo the document of April 9, along with my four points and other observations and we sat down to await the Japanese reply.

On May 7 Nomura came again to my apartment. He made a suggestion, as coming from his government, that our two countries sign a non-aggression pact. Without hesitation I promptly brushed this aside. "This is an entirely different matter from the proposals contained in your document of April 9," I said. "My government is not thinking of considering anything except basic principles as a foundation for any negotiations."

Nomura also said he had received a telegram from Matsuoka, but there were many things in it that "were wrong." He asked if he might hand it to me. I studied a moment and then said that, since it had many things in it that were wrong, he might just as well retain it. If he had the authority to do so, because, as he indicated, it would seem to negative most or much of the document of April 9, and hence no progress could be made. Nomura accordingly kept the telegram.

Contents Already Known
ACTUALLY, we already knew the contents of the message. It contained a statement from Matsuoka to me that the German and Italian leaders were confident of victory, that American participation in the European War would merely prolong it and bring about the destruction of civilization, and that Japan could not injure the position of her allies.

We knew this because of the fact that our Navy and Army cipher experts, with remarkable ingenuity, had broken the Japanese code, and were deciphering government messages from Tokyo to Washington and other capitals, translating them and sending them to the State department for our information.

These intercepts, bearing our code name "Magic," played little part in our early negotiations, but were of great importance during the final phases. They enabled us to know many of the instructions the Japanese foreign minister was sending to Nomura and to other Japanese representatives; they gave us a check on what Nomura was reporting to Tokyo concerning the conversations he was holding with me; and they showed that the Japanese government was going ahead with its plans of conquest even while talking of peace with us. I looked upon them as a witness against his own side of a case.

I naturally had to be careful never to give Nomura the slightest impression of this special knowledge. I had to take care to keep our conversation limited to the knowledge I might have gained from him or from normal diplomatic sources. So as to safeguard the security of these messages, I named one of my secretaries to handle them, keep track of them and make sure they were either returned to the Navy or destroyed.

Nomura on May 12 handed me a complete new set of documents, namely Japan's draft for an agreement and a paper containing an "oral explanation" of the proposals. We were now in possession of Japan's official propositions. A basis was laid, as of May 12, for the discussion that went on, with one interruption, up to Pearl Harbor. Very few rays of hope shone from the document. What Japan was proposing was mostly to her own advantage. It called, in effect, for a species of joint overlordship of the Pacific area by Japan and the United States, with Japan the baron of the part that embraced nine-tenths of the population and the wealth, and with little consideration for the rights and interests of other nations.

To have rejected it outright would have meant throwing away the only real chance we had had in many months to enter with Japan into fundamental discussion of all the questions outstanding between us.

Consequently, we decided to go forward on the basis of the Japanese proposals.

As soon as the Japanese government realized we were willing to use the May 12 proposals as a basis for discussion, they began instantly to move, not in our direction with more conciliatory proposals, but in the opposite direction with changes that brought the proposals more into line with their imperialistic ambitions and their Axis alliance.

WE HAD very definite knowledge of what Japan was planning. On the surface, an Imperial Conference was held in Tokyo on July 2, following which military steps of an alarming nature began to be taken.

Between one and two million men were called to the armed forces, Japanese merchant vessels were suddenly recalled from the Atlantic, travel restrictions and strict censorship of mails and communications were imposed in Japan. The various steps taken were indicative of preparations for a major war.

Under the surface, our intercepts of Japanese government messages now gave us equally alarming information. A message from Tokyo to Berlin on July 2 contained these ominous paragraphs on policy:

- "1. Imperial Japan shall adhere to the policy of contributing to world peace by establishing the Great East Asia Sphere of Co-Prosperity, regardless of how the world situation may change.
- "2. The Imperial government shall continue its endeavor to dispose of the China incident, and shall take measures with a view to advancing southward in order to establish firmly a basis for her self-existence and self-protection."

A message from Matsuoka to Nomura on the same day added: "Preparations for southward advance shall be reinforced and the policy already decided upon with reference to French Indo-China and Thailand shall be executed. As regards the Russo-German War, although the spirit of the Three-Power Axis shall be maintained, every preparation shall be made at the present and the situation shall be dealt with in our own way."

"In the meantime, diplomatic negotiations shall be carried on with extreme care. Although every means available shall be resorted to in order to prevent the United States from joining the war, if need be Japan shall act in accordance with the Three-Power Pact and shall decide when and how force will be employed."

Shortly thereafter Japanese troops on July 21 occupied the southern portions of Indo-China and were now in possession of the whole of France's strategic province, pointing like a pugy thumb toward the Philippines, Malaya, and the Dutch East Indies.

Welles telephoned me at White Sulphur Springs on July 23 to talk over with me what he should say to Nomura who had requested an interview with him.

I said to him that the invasion of Southern Indo-China looked like Japan's last step before jumping off for a full-scale attack in the Southwestern Pacific. Since it came in the midst of the conversations we were holding with Japan, I said I could see no basis for pursuing the conversations further. Welles made these comments:

Columbiana Board, Council Studying Park, Cemetery Plan

COLUMBIANA, Feb. 19.—No appointment having yet been made to fill the vacant post of manager of the park, city council, Tuesday evening named Russell Barrow, president of council, to meet with the park board to consider salary and a cemetery management plan, with an interchange of labor and circumstances may require.

The park board has been considering plans for a more efficient method of conducting park affairs, along with some improvements. Councilman J. K. Harding made the suggestion to council of a merger of the park-cemetery management and interchange of labor.

Improvement of the tennis courts, which are out of commission much of the time on account of storm damage from the rising ground to the east, were discussed but can not be carried out at this time.

Rules to be Enforced
Robert Chestnut of the cemetery board complained of people ignoring a board regulation forbidding cutting of shrubbery in the new part of the cemetery, which is an inconvenience in keeping the grass trimmed. The large Firestone burial lot is an exception because it is maintained by the family at its own expense.

Street Commissioner Walter Thomas reported tenants of the Clapp building on Main st. having difficulty with drainage of roof water, the conduit in the alley in the rear having become impaired. They were advised to disconnect their drains and permit surface drainage for the present.

Councilman Harry Eberhart was unable to be present at the meeting on account of burns received in trying to revive a low fire in the furnace at his place of business, the Columbiana Motor Co., E. Park ave. He threw in what he thought was ordinary oil from a small can nearby, but it proved highly inflammable, and the puff of flame singed his face and hands.

Students Have Supper
The Junior Y Teens and the Torch Club of the High school enjoyed a spaghetti supper in the school cafeteria Tuesday evening, followed by dance. They are sponsored, respectively, by Mildred Burton and Elton Bachman, of the faculty. V. C. Applegate, farm extension agent of Harrison county, will be the speaker at the laymen's service in the Methodist church next Sunday morning. Applegate was one of the delegates from Northeast Ohio Methodist conference to the rural life meeting in Lincoln, Neb., last summer. Laymen will have charge of the service and the men's chorus will sing.

K. of P. Secretary Here
F. Glenn Sparks of Dayton, grand secretary of Ohio Knights of Pythias, will be a guest of Columbiana Lodge No. 438 this evening. It will be the first time a grand secretary has visited the Columbiana lodge, organized about 60 years ago. Mr. Sparks will bring a new motion picture projector, a gift from the grand lodge to Columbiana lodge, and a message from the grand lodge.

Farley Blames FDR For World's Trouble

HAMILTON, N. Y., Feb. 19.—James A. Farley believes that the policies of Franklin D. Roosevelt during his third and fourth terms were responsible for "many of the ills that beset the world today."

The former Postmaster General, whose political genius was largely responsible for Roosevelt's election to office in 1932 and 1936, described the late President as "a born leader" who, in his waning years, divided the world in a series of concessions embodied in secret agreements.

Farley told a Colgate university forum last night. "I have said and I sincerely believe that many of the ills which beset the world today may be traced to the third and fourth terms, which brought a great mind, but one worn by the weight of years and the cares of state, to all important conferences at Teheran and Yalta.

"It was not the vital, resolute mind that gave a despairing nation hope with the clarion call, 'We have nothing to fear but fear itself.'"

The former Democratic national chairman also criticized Henry Wallace for bolting the Democratic party to form an independent ticket. He emphasized his opposition to all third parties, terming them havens for "demagogues and malcontents."

There will be pictures and a lecture by Mrs. L. C. Dalrymple of Youngstown for the women. M. A. Kelly of Salem is secretary of the council.

GREENFORD

Mrs. Lottie Slagle was hostess Wednesday to an all-day quilting of the Lutheran Ladies Aid. A covered dinner was served.

Miss Martha Eyck entertained the Junior class at a Valentine party Friday evening.

Miss Lola Ann Shellar entertained her Sunday school class at a Valentine party Friday.

Home and School association will hold its monthly card party next Wednesday evening, Feb. 25, at the school.

Willing Workers class of the Lutheran church will meet this evening with Mrs. Albert Lang. The roll call is patriotic songs.

Enters Hospital
Frank Duestman entered Youngstown South Side hospital Monday for surgical treatment.

Mrs. Mary E. Pettit has been ill the past week.

A play, "Daffy Dill," will be given by the Junior class Friday evening.

Wagner May Resign

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Democratic leaders disclosed today that Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York, may resign from the senate in the near future so his vacant seat can be filled at next November's election.

Wagner is reported to have suggested his own resignation because of persistent ill health. If he resigns before Aug. 3, the vacancy must be filled at November's election.

Files Suit For $2,000 After Dog Attacks Boy

LISBON, Feb. 19.—Andrew Milton Lamp of Wellsville, R. D. 1, filed an action in common pleas court seeking $2,000 for injuries received when a dog owned by Joe Ross of Wellsville and harbored by Dan Cataldo, near Wellsville, suddenly and viciously attacked the lad while he was playing about in the vicinity of his home.

It is charged the dog bit the plaintiff on the legs, arm and body and that he suffered severe shock to his nervous system and it is alleged permanent injuries.

Recorded by the county department of health in January, Dr. B. B. McGuire stated today in revealing 41 deaths, and 18 births reported last month.

Month's Deaths High
LISBON, Feb. 19.—Deaths were more than double the births recorded by the county department of health in January, Dr. B. B. McGuire stated today in revealing 41 deaths, and 18 births reported last month.

Frigid Dog Pound Gets Official In Doghouse

MILLVALE, N. J.—The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to animals turned on the heat—and it wanted some of the steam to reach the local dog pound.

Specifically, it charged Public Safety Commissioner Russell F. Carew with cruelty to animals by failure to keep the dog pound warm. The open, ramshackle structure has no heating facilities, according to Mrs. Mildred Peters, state SPCA agent. She said investigators found water in the pails frozen.

Carew, who was released under $500 bail for a further hearing, said the city of Millvale provides only $1,000 annually for upkeep of the pound and the dog-catcher's salary.

DEMOCRATS

against Communism on the left and toryism on the right cannot be won unless every Democrat resolves to get out and vote.

Harold E. Stassen, candidate for the GOP presidential nomination, called the victory of the Wallace man in the Bronx democratic stronghold good news for the Republicans.

It indicates, Stassen said at Spokane, Wash., that working men and women who used to vote for Roosevelt are leaving the Democratic party.

However, Senator Aiken (R-Vt.) said the American Labor Party victory showed "disaffection with both the old parties." He declared: "Many voters are disgusted with the lack of good government on the part of the Democratic administration and lack of progressive ideas on the part of Republican party leaders."

Aiken often differs with the GOP leadership. Senator Lucas (D-Ill.), assistant Democratic leader in the senate, told reporters the result did not mean much.

"Emotions were high and the Communists got out every vote," Lucas said. "The Democrats and Republicans stayed home."

Senator Ives (R-NY) put it this way: "I'm not surprised at the small Republican vote because they did not expect to win. I'm not surprised at the ALP vote because they got out 100 percent. I am surprised at the Democratic vote because they were supposed to win."

Rep. Sadowski (D-Mich.) said "the only thing that can save President Truman is to change our foreign policy and nominate Senator Pepper (D-Ia) for Vice President."

Pepper's political views are such that he was mentioned for a while as a possible running mate for Wallace. He scotched those reports with a statement that he intends to remain a Democrat.

With President Truman as the main attraction, the Jefferson-Jackson celebration is expected to draw around 2,900 tonight.

It was divided into two sections—at the Statler and Mayflower hotels.

Mr. and Mrs. Truman and Daughter Margaret will dine at the Statler, where the President will make a short speech. Then the party will go to the Mayflower, where he will make his main address.

The second speech at 10:30 p. m., Eastern Standard Time, will be carried by the radio chains and television.

POTATOES

Ithaca, N. Y., nationally known speaker, gave two talks.

At the morning session he used for his theme, "Potato Soil Management" and in the afternoon his subject was "Recent Changes in Potato Growing Practices."

There is nothing fundamental about potato growing. Experiences of growers vary from area to area and state to state, Handenberg pointed out.

He gave three requirements of a good potato soil.

(1) Friability or good air drainage (pore space).

(2) Good natural drainage to depth of one foot at least.

(3) Low (distinctly acid) soil reaction, preferably pH 4.8 to 5.3. This quality of soil will avoid scab and still not limit yield.

J. C. Hedge, Mahoning county agricultural agent, presided at the afternoon session, which concluded with a talk on "Potatoes for Chips" by John A. Heints of Detroit.

Directors Re-elected
Re-elected directors for the Columbiana-Mahoning Potato Growers association are:

Columbiana county—Ben Weingart, Sam Tritten, P. L. Vincent, A. W. Audrich, Howard Wise and Howard Holloway.

Mahoning county—Ernest Stackhouse, Francis Less, Elbert Agnew, Karl Johnson, Charles Barth and Ewing Holloway.

Officers will be named at a session to be announced later. Ben Weingart, R. D. 4, Leetonia is president of the association, and A. W. Audrich, R. D. 4, Leetonia, is secretary.

• OBITUARY •

FLOYD WILT

Floyd Wilt, 53, of 287 Washington ave., died of a heart ailment about noon today in Salem City hospital. He entered the hospital Wednesday.

Funeral arrangements will be announced Friday.

MRS. MARY VODREY NEASE
EAST LIVERPOOL, Feb. 19 — Mrs. Mary Vodrey Nease, 77, descendant of pioneer residents of this section, died Wednesday afternoon at her home here.

Born June 14, 1870, she was a daughter of Col. William H. Vodrey and Elizabeth Jackman Vodrey, both from families prominent in the development of this district.

Her grandfather, Jabez Vodrey, started in Pittsburgh in 1827 the first pottery west of the Allegheny mountains. Afterward he managed potteries in Louisville, Ky., and Troy, Ind., before coming to East Liverpool in 1847 where he and his descendants were potters until the old Vodrey pottery closed in 1928.

The Jackman family includes the many descendants of elder John Jackman of Fredericktown, founder of the Disciples of Christ church in this region.

During World War I, Mrs. Nease served in France with the Y. M. C. A.

For East Liverpool's centennial celebration in 1934, Mrs. Nease brought together one of the most comprehensive pottery collections ever assembled. The collection now is the property of the East Liverpool Historical society.

Surviving are her brother, William H. Vodrey, and five nieces and nephews, Mrs. Elizabeth Vodrey Kress of Beaver, Pa., Mrs. Louise Vodrey Boyd of Portsmouth, William H. Vodrey III of East Liverpool, Joseph K. Vodrey of Canton, and Oliver B. Vodrey of Jacksonsville, Pa.

Funeral service will be held at 11 a. m. Saturday at Emmanuel Presbyterian church here in charge of Rev. Andrew I. Keener of Emmanuel church and Rev. D. Park Chapman of the Church of Christ.

Burial will be in the family plot at Riverside cemetery.

YOUNG FUNERAL
LISBON, Feb. 19 — Services for Charles M. Young, 77, who died at his home Tuesday evening, will be held at the Eells-Leggett funeral home at 2 p. m. Friday. Rev. C. L. Cope, pastor of the Methodist church, will be in charge and burial will be in the Lisbon cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home this evening.

WILLIAM M. REEDER
EAST LIVERPOOL, Feb. 19 — William M. Reeder of Rogers died today at 3 a. m. at his home after a brief illness. He was 65. Reeder leaves his widow, two brothers, including Harry Reeder of Canton, and three sisters. Burial will be in Bucyrus.

Center Remains Open
CLEVELAND, Feb. 19 — The city-operated Veterans Information center will continue operations until Oct. 1, although personnel will cut from 22 to 11, Mayor Thomas A. Burke ruled last night. The center, slated to be closed, was given an emergency budget of $37,000 for the next eight months.

Former Pastor Dies
CLEVELAND, Feb. 19 — Rev. Joseph L. Garvin, 74, for many years in the insurance business here, died yesterday in St. Luke's hospital. His first pastorate was at First Christian church in Youngstown, and during the First World War he was religious director for the YMCA at Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, O.

Natives can buy enough food for one good substantial meal for one penny in Haiti.

TAFT

district where "things look particularly good," he added.

The decision to organize independent Taft-For-President clubs in Ohio was made over the protest of Fred H. Johnson, state Republican chairman; Rep. Clarence J. Brown, Taft's campaign manager, and Rep. George H. Bender, GOP chairman in Cuyahoga county.

Waiter, who originally proposed the clubs, apparently convinced Sen. Taft that such clubs are essential in the Ohio campaign.

Johnson, and Reps. Brown and Bender wanted all of the campaign activities to clear through the regular GOP organization.

CAR RESALE SUIT AGAINST DEALER

PORTSMOUTH, Feb. 19 — The purchaser won the first Ohio case involving a non-resale clause in an automobile purchase contract.

A common pleas court deliberated 10 minutes yesterday before finding for Dean Slavens, charged by Watkins Motor Co. of selling a car to Bruce Stapleton, an Ashland, Ky., dealer after having signed an agreement to keep the car for six months.

The motor company asked $600 damages, alleging Slavens sold the car for $2,590 after purchasing it for $1,983. He had signed an agreement not to sell the car for six months without first offering it to the Watkins company, the suit alleged.

In State Hospital
CANTON, Feb. 19 — A 55-year-old Massillon steelworker, Zake Filip, under a first degree murder indictment, yesterday was committed to the Lima State hospital for the criminal insane. He is accused of shooting John Volda, 55, also a steelworker, in a Massillon bar last Dec. 3. Common Pleas Judge Paul G. Weber ordered that Filip must stand trial if his mental condition were restored to normal at Lima.

Foreign Entries

May Join Air Races

CLEVELAND, Feb. 19 — Participation by foreign entries is being planned for the National Air races of 1948.

If the contest committee of the National Aeronautic association approves, a special pylon race for foreign pilots and foreign planes will be put on the program, said Ben T. Franklin, director of the races.

Foreign participation also will be scheduled for the annual Bendix derby from Los Angeles to Cleveland.

Franklin said foreign entrants would have to be certified by the Federation of Aeronautics International that they were not subsidized by their governments.

Another change in the race program will be to combine into one event three special pylon races for

P-38, P-51 and P-63 fighter type craft. Under a handicap system, faster planes will take off last. The first place across the finish line after seven laps around a 15-mile course would be the winner.

MACKENZIE'S Column

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

We shouldn't let the charges and counter-charges about who started World War II get us off the beam. The vital thing for us to know is who began the "Cold-War" in which we now are engaged, and what it means.

After all, it's the present and future in which we have to live. Naturally a knowledge of history is vital to help us interpret the present and prepare for the future. For that reason it is well that we study the current exchange between Washington and Moscow about the antecedents of the Second World War. We won't go into details here but a few highlights on thumbnail are these:

Household Hints

When cooked prunes are used in pudding, cakes or muffins the prune juice remaining may be blended with milk, chilled and served as an after-school snack.

To avoid strain and energy in carrying clothes to the wash line, roll the clothes basket out on a cart or pull it out on a sled over snowy ground.

When children tire of milk as a drink, it should be given to them in cream soups, in rice puddings, in custards or rennet-pudding desserts and in other dishes.

Baking powder biscuit dough may be spread with mince meat, rolled up, cut in slices and baked. A browned sugar sauce is delicious served with the cooked dessert.

Electric irons with thermostats may not be suited for both AC or DC current so be sure it can be used on both currents before depending on it for travel use.

Frozen pork will be fine in flavor if used within five or six months of the date stored, advises the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Sweet sandwiches are excellent to send along in a lunch box with the regular "main dish" sandwiches. Cream cheese and pineapple preserves on date bread make a good combination. So do cream cheese and cranberry sauce on cinnamon-raisin loaf.

In making fudge a creamy, fine-grained product is easier to obtain if the sugar is thoroughly dissolved by stirring until the boiling point is reached. During boiling the fudge should not be stirred.

More for your money - TODAY?

Yes—there's one down-to-earth figure among today's prices. If yours is an average family, you get twice as much electricity for your money as you did twenty years ago!

You've helped make electricity a bargain by using it for more and more jobs. And, in spite of rising costs of fuel, labor, and materials, the business-managed electric companies still supply America with the most and the best electric service in the world—at a price that everybody can afford.

and Godesberg where he tried to appease the Nazi beast, and having attended the fateful Munich conference where little Czechoslovakia's head was handed to Hitler on a platter.

However, I'm much more concerned with our current "cold-war" and the danger that it may get "hot". Who started that, and why? This column has answered those questions before but they are so vital that we venture to repeat. It's dangerous for us not to know the facts, and here they are:

This "cold-war" was started by the Soviet Union back in 1919 when the Comintern, or Third International, was formed. This was the general staff to supervise a world revolution for the establishment of Communism in all countries. The crusade was pushed until Stalin came to power after Lenin's death in '24.

STALIN TEMPORARILY pushed the world campaign to the background while he inaugurated his five year plans to make Russia powerful industrially and militarily. He wanted to get set for eventualities. The Soviet leader was credited by European observers with anticipating another world war that would bleed Europe white and provide the chaos which would give Communism its chance. Well, the world war came—and history will determine how it started. The important fact is that a distraught continent did provide a fertile field for the Redism, backed by Russian arms, and a huge Communist empire was carved from Eastern and Central Europe.

Out of these circumstances have grown the "cold-war", which now threatens Western Europe and the rest of the world.

Mountains of argument will be developed about how the world war started. There is no argument about the "cold-war" or its threat to free nations.

NBC Correspondent Tells of His Capture

(By Associated Press)
JERUSALEM, Feb. 19—A National Broadcasting Company correspondent said today he was arrested and tried yesterday by an Arab national guard court in Jerusalem.
Don Peretz of Sunnyside, N. Y., said in a story published by the Palestine post today he was freed "on condition that I never set foot in an Arab area again."
Peretz, an American Jew, gave this account of his experience:
"I was arrested by the Arab national guard while going to the Jewish section of the city from the U. M. C. A. I was halted by a group of armed Arabs who requested my identity card. Upon showing them my N. B. C. card and U. S. Army discharge papers, I was told they were inadequate, and my American passport was demanded. I did not have this with me.
"A cab was called and I was warned to remove my American hat lest I be shot while entering the cab. My captors said as we drove through the Jaffa gate into the old city: 'You are now in Arab territory. The English have nothing to say here.'

Peretz wrote he was taken into a room under heavy guard and brought before the Jerusalem commander of the Arab national guard. A priest acted as interpreter.
After being asked many questions, Peretz said he was taken to another room while his case was being decided, and then:
"After a few minutes I was brought back into the court. The priest smiled at me and I felt that all would be well. I was told: 'You are very fortunate, for we are letting you go. You are not to enter Arab territory again.'
"I was asked to sign a statement saying I had been well and fairly treated, and a photograph was taken from me and attached to the statement."
It has been estimated that there are now approximately 35,000 vaudeville performers in theaters throughout the United States.

Questions, Answers

Q—What was the Diet of Worms?
A—It was a council called in 1521 by the Emperor Charles V to try Martin Luther for his heretical teachings.

Q—Does a president pro tem of the Senate receive a vice president's salary?
A—In case of a vacancy in the vice presidency, the president pro tem of the Senate receives the salary of a vice president as presiding officer in the Senate. When a senator is appointed to fill the vice president's place during absences, he draws only a senator's salary.

Oil production at record heights but your help still essential

7 REASONS WHY OIL CONSUMPTION IS NOW AT AN ALL-TIME HIGH!

MORE CARS, TRUCKS, BUSES
1941 1947
24,241,947 vehicles up 55%
Today, more cars, trucks and buses are on the road than ever before. Huge quantities of fuel and lubricants are consumed daily.

MORE OIL BURNERS
1941 1947
2,400,000 burners up 40%
Oil is clean and efficient heating. That's why more homes, schools and hospitals have installed oil burners. The average American oil-burning home consumes approximately 1700 gallons per year.

MORE FARM MACHINERY
1941 1947
1,700,000 tractors up 50%
New equipment used for the nation's harvest demands large quantities of petroleum. In the mid-west alone, farm use of oil products has nearly doubled since 1941.

MORE DIESEL ENGINES
1941 1947
15,970 up 50%
More and more trains are now moved by diesel engines... in petroleum products, to provide power for the needs of steel.

MORE COMMERCIAL PLANES
1941 1947
333 planes up 67%
Great advances continue fast because of petroleum. Special fuels and lubricants are required. A four-engine plane uses from 200 to 350 gallons every hour it's in the air.

MORE INDUSTRIAL USAGE
1941 1947
14,000,000 barrels annually up 18%
As industry steps up production, demand for heavy fuel oil, industrial lubricants and kerosene is rising. Petroleum products grow bigger and bigger.

MORE MILITARY NEEDS
1941 1947
15,000,000 barrels annually up 50%
Immense quantities of petroleum are required by our Army and Navy. For military operations, diesel cannot be... more cannot move... ships cannot sail.

HERE'S WHY You Must Save Fuel Oil Now

Unless we all save as much fuel oil as possible, there may not be enough to keep our homes, schools and public buildings warm through the winter.
This is true even though more oil products are being produced and delivered today than ever before. Faced with the greatest demand in history, production is up to new record heights, and crude oil is being rushed to refineries and then to you. But there may not be enough to go around, unless every user saves as much as he can.
The oil industry is spending over $4 billion dollars to meet your needs. New sources of supply are being uncovered... right now we are importing more oil than we are exporting... refinery and distribution facilities are being expanded... never faster methods of transportation are being provided.
But this expansion takes time. The oil industry, like many others, faces difficulties in obtaining the necessary materials.
Save as much fuel oil, kerosene and gasoline as you can. If everyone cooperates there will be enough for all.

HERE'S HOW

To Save Money... Save Fuel Oil...
Help Stretch the Supply

1. Keep temperature at moderate level—not more than 68 degrees. Turn thermostat to 60 or below at night.
  2. Keep doors, windows closed shades drawn. Close oil unused rooms.
  3. Insulate storm windows and insulation to keep heat in... cold out.
  4. Be sure to have your heating system checked to be sure you're getting the most efficient use of your fuel oil.
- If everyone cooperates, the current "pinch" need not last too long. As soon as it is humanly possible, there'll be enough oil for all your needs. And the greater your co-operation the sooner that day will be.
- IF EVERYONE SAVES... there will be enough for all.

How A&P Gives You Lower Food Prices

During the past week you have noticed lower prices on many important food items in your A&P Stores.

These prices are a direct reflection of the reductions in the market cost of the food to us.

Many of our customers are amazed to find price reductions going into effect so quickly at the retail level. They wonder how we do it.

There is no mystery about it. We are able to reflect these market reductions promptly because of three basic policies:

First—We endeavor to buy our food from primary sources of supply, such as farmers, meat packers, and grocery manufacturers, and move it directly to our stores and warehouses. This keeps down the cost of distribution to us and the price to you at all times.

Second—When the cost of food to us goes down, we do not wait until we have exhausted supplies on hand, but endeavor to reflect reductions in our retail prices promptly.

Third—We are food merchants, not food speculators. We do not build up great reserves of food at any time. We are in the market day to day buying food to meet our customers' day to day needs.

The lower prices you are finding in A&P Stores, coming as they do at a time when all of us are concerned with the high cost of living, have prompted many of our customers to ask us what the food price outlook is. Are there going to be further price reductions in these and other foods?

Frankly, it is impossible for anyone to predict future retail food prices without knowing whether the current break in the commodity market is temporary or the beginning of a general trend.

Grocers do not control the price they must pay for food. They can lower retail prices only to the extent to which they buy wisely, keep their own costs and profits down, and pass along savings resulting from lower wholesale prices to their customers.

We base our retail price on the cost to us plus our low cost of doing business including our small profit of about 1½ cents on each dollar of sales.

Therefore, we can say A&P prices will follow the market trend, and that any further reduction in the cost of food to us, or in our costs of doing business, will promptly result in lower prices in our stores.

You can count on A&P to give you lower prices whenever and wherever it is possible. You can trust A&P to give you the most quality food for your money.

The Nation Today

BY JERRY KORN
(For James Marlow)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 — This will bring you up to date on the arguments about how much the Marshall plan should cost the United States.

All sorts of facts and figures about the program's cost have been floating around since Secretary of State Marshall first suggested the plan to help Europe recover.

The most recent set of figures came Friday from the senate foreign relations committee.

Members of that group all agreed that the program should last four years and that it should cost $3,300,000,000 for the first year.

But don't count on that figure. That's just the latest of a long series.

Marshall didn't mention any amount eight months ago when he proposed the recovery program.

He told the nations of Europe something like this:

"We'll give you all the help we can—if you first get together to help each other by exchanging the goods you need."

The Russian-dominated nations of Eastern Europe turned down the program. The Communists said they would do all they could to wreck it.

But 16 Western European countries jumped at the offer.

They met at Paris and decided they needed a four-year program which—after they had helped each other—still would cost about $22,400,000,000.

That was the first time any figures were mentioned.

American officials took that estimate and whittled it down wherever they could. Finally, they talked of asking congress for about $17,000,000,000 for the four-year recovery plan.

But when President Truman presented the Marshall plan request to congress he didn't mention that figure—or any other four-year figure.

Instead, he said the European

Recovery Program should cost $6,800,000,000 for the first 15 months. Congress and the administration could decide later, he said, how much to spend for the rest of the program. Both he and Marshall insisted that the figure should not be cut any deeper.

That didn't stop congressmen from talking about cutting it. Some of them talked of slicing it by as much as $2,000,000,000.

That's the way it stood until yesterday, when the senate committee came up with a still different figure.

That total—$5,300,000,000 for the first year—would trim about $11,100,000,000 a month off the amount Truman asked for.

And here's why even that probably won't be final.

First, the full senate must okay it. And there are still plenty of senators who want to cut it still more.

But the house foreign affairs committee is working on a different bill which probably will mention a different figure. That will have to be debated and approved by the full house.

Then the house and senate will have to compromise.

That compromise will be the final figure. It will have come a long way and probably will look a lot different from the one suggested by the senate committee.

Then suppose the President signs that compromise bill. What then? Will the 16 European countries get that amount of money?

Not necessarily. Another bill would have to be passed to provide the money.

And that bill would have to be okayed by (1) the house appro-

OHIO COLLEGIATE RACE FEATURES WOOSTER SCOTS

Triumph Over Case 71-52 Friday To Continue On Torrid Cage Pace

(By Associated Press) COLUMBUS, Feb. 19.—Wooster's Scots romped 71 to 52 over Case Tech in an Ohio conference basketball game last night, remaining in command of the state-wide college cage race.

It was the 11th successive victory for the Scots and their 15th in 17 games. They stand second in the Ohio conference with 11 wins and two losses. Ohio Wesleyan, eight wins and one loss, leads the conference. Earl Shaw led the Scots last night with 14 field goals for 28 points.

Xavier university, second in the All-State standings, also maintained its position, with a 61 to 44 defeat of Miami university. Xavier, paced by Art Morthorst with 21 and Malcolm McMullen with 19, was never in danger.

But Wilberforce State, another leader, stumbled over Cedarville, 53 to 43 as the victors led all the way. The halftime score was 29 to 23. It was Wilberforce's fourth loss in 18 starts and Cedarville's sixth victory against 12 defeats.

The Toledo Rockets came through in the closing minutes to nab a 59 to 55 victory from Akron in Ohio conference play. Guard Dal Zuber's field goal put the Rockets ahead with three minutes to go. Hank Vaughn of Akron topped the scoring with 18 points. Zuber led Toledo with 17.

Other games included: Kent State's Golden Flashes rolled 59 to 44 over John Carroll on a second half barrage after leading only 25-22 at halftime.

Baldwin Wallace, led by Guard Dick Selge's 20 points, also cut loose in the second half to down the Youngstown Penguins, 68 to 53.

And Findlay's Oilers poured on the heat in the second half, going over Bluffton 55 to 46 after leading by a scant one-point, 24-23 at halftime.

The Chillicothe Branch of Ohio university coasted through half of the last period, defeating the Portsmouth Branch of the same school, 57 to 44.

JUST TWO WEEKS TO SIGN, LOUIS TELLS JERSEY JOE WALCOTT

Champ Put Out Over Walcott Reluctance to Make Up Mind On Fight

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—Joe Louis, his patience wearing thin, says he'll give Jersey Joe Walcott just two weeks to sign for a return shot at the heavyweight boxing crown.

If the Camden, N. J., veteran doesn't come to terms by then, the champion adds, then he'll make his last fight against somebody else—"probably Gus Lesnevich."

"You'd think Walcott was the champion the way he wants to call the shots," the Brown Bomber declared last night on the eve of his departure for a series of exhibitions in England.

Louis said he thought Lesnevich, the lightweight champion, would prove a better drawing card than Walcott, anyhow.

"I think we'd draw a million dollar gate if Gus can knock out Billy Fox again," he added. "I also think he'd put up a better fight. He's a hard puncher." Lesnevich meets Fox March 5.

Walcott could not be reached immediately for comment on this new estimate.

Until yesterday the return engagement appeared almost set, with the only differences revolving around distribution of movie proceeds. The Twentieth Century offered Jersey Joe a 22½ per cent cut. Walcott has asked for 30.

But another hitch arose when Louis' manager, Marshall Miles, disclosed the fight contract, must have a clause guaranteeing Louis an even 30-30 per cent split for a return bout in case he should be beaten.

Miles said this didn't mean Louis, if a loser, would go back on his announcement to retire after his June battle. Louis agreed it was just "protection."

Trojans Play Friday And Big Red Saturday; Miller Concerned Over Tourney

Coach Bob Miller's Quakers—with the corner of an eye turned on the approaching tournament—face a Herculean task this weekend and one that may not be as easy as it might seem on the surface.

Friday evening the Sebring Trojans, a rugged but not too accurate cage outfit, visits the local gym to be followed here Saturday evening by a Steubenville Big Red squad noted for its "ups and downs" in district competition this season.

The difficulty in the whole set-up, of course, is the fact that practice workouts have had to contain triple-geared instructions all this week, for their will be virtually no time for Coach Miller to prepare his team specifically for the opening tournament clash with Alliance at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday at South field house, Youngstown.

On the surface Sebring would indicate Salem to be a heavy favorite, but the Trojans have a reputation for the more rugged approach to the hardwood sport—a factor which often makes the margin between the calibre of ball defences.

Salem, however, should be figured on paper as a good 15 to 20 points better than the Trojans, who are Class B tourney entries this season.

The visitors Friday won't command much height or fire-power, with no exceptional scorers.

For Saturday's chore Miller has drawn a corker in Steubenville. The Big Red have a nine victory, 12 loss record compiled against very stiff opposition.

The odd thing about the janky Big Red outfit is the brand of ball played from time to time. For instance: The Steubenville club liked vaunted Toronto in one game, then lost badly in a second and exchanged games with East Liverpool in no uncertain terms either time.

The contest here this weekend will serve as farewells to the High school, speaking in a basketball way, for Seniors Virgil Kelly, Pete Cain, Carl Cleozzi and Bob Payer.

It will be the final showing of that quartet on the home floor, where all have helped a great deal toward bringing Salem some of its best records in history.

The reserve game Friday will open at 7:30 with the varsity to go at 8:45 p. m.

RUSH was telling Rinda about the picnic grounds. Laurie and Tommy were playing gin rummy. The fire murmured contentedly in the hearth. Ann leaned her head back against the chair.

The picnic grounds were on the far hill beyond the rose garden to the rear of the house, on the other side of the ravine.

Ann was fond of the ravine as she was of the gas fireplace in her bedroom or the grandfather clock on the landing. It was deep and rocky (treacherous, too, and dangerous, although those words were never used to describe it until after the 13th of May) and there were broad stone steps leading from the rose garden down into the ravine. There were steps going up the other side, of course. Steps that led to the picnic grounds. The climb was arduous and steep but no one ever complained after they reached the top because the picnic grounds were so perfect.

There was a green tiled pool 70 feet long and 30 feet wide. And opposite the pool were the picnic tables, the portable grill and the big one built of fieldstone, the well-equipped bar. The picnic grounds were so perfect that it was almost easier to have a picnic for twenty than a dinner party for four.

So, since it was so easy to have a picnic, Rush couldn't be blamed for suggesting it, could he? He always took over the cooking when they had a picnic; so he was actually suggesting a lot of work for himself.

"But you'll all have to help," he had said to the others, "because the servants have the day off."

Ann had given them the day off before she'd received Rinda's letter inviting herself to Tophill. The shock of the thought brought her upright. Inviting herself? Rinda?

What is the matter with me? she wondered. I've urged Rinda to come for years.

She pressed her hands to her throbbing temples. Her head was aching in earnest now. She forced herself back . . . back to the picnic . . . back to Decoration Day . . .

Ann awakened early that morning. She jumped out of bed and went downstairs to see if she could help Stella, the cook, and Mary and Susan, the maids, with breakfast. Stella and the girls were going to Akron for the holiday and their bus left at nine o'clock. Everyone had been warned that breakfast would be early, the only surprising thing was that everyone was prompt.

While the others were lingering over coffee and cigars, Ann went into the kitchen to do the dishes and attend to last minute preparations for the picnic.

One by one the others straggled out.

"All set?" Laurie asked, perching on the kitchen table. "Ann, for crying in a tin cup, what are you doing? Cooking? I thought Stella got everything ready? I thought—" "Now never mind, baby," Ann said. "And I'm not cooking. Just deviling the eggs. Stella didn't have time. Everything else—well, practically everything else—is ready. Rush, your basket is over there—she nodded toward the outside door—"And Tommy, there's yours."

Rush had the oil and potatoes, Tommy the gin and vermouth, the lemons and olives and cherries. "Luke took 50 pounds of ice up this morning while he was doing chores." Luke was the gardener. "Well, look, funny face,"—Rush ambled over and reached for a hard-boiled egg—"what gives? Aren't we all going?"

Ann shook her head. "My sinus is acting up," she said. "So I can't go swimming. I'm going to gather up odds and ends and meet you at the pool in an hour or so."

"Can't we take most of the stuff now?"

"Nope. I want to keep it in the refrigerator."

"Well, ring the bell when you're ready and I'll come for you."

"Pooh," said Ann airily. "I'll come by the bridge."

"Bridge?" said Rinda and Gay shuddered and said she, for one, would never cross the ravine that way. "It goes right over the ravine at the steepest part . . . and it actually swings while you're on it!"

"Well, naturally," Laurie said. "It's a swinging bridge."

"O. K.," Rush said, "but if you want me whistle."

She flashed him a smile and he bent and his kiss caught her on the end of her nose. She shooed them from the kitchen, got on with the eggs. She was very nearly finished and humming as she moved briskly around the kitchen when she heard someone at the back door.

"Come in," she called.

It didn't occur to her to be afraid. Life was fine and life was beautiful and there wasn't anything in the world to be afraid of. (To Be Continued)
